

Blood on the Snows

Photo: Mark Rolston / AFP Getty Images www.uprisingarchive.org

Tuesday 29 March 2016

6:00pm – 8:00pm

University of Aberdeen, New King's Building (room NK1), Aberdeen

In 2008, after decades of occupation and repression, a wave of protests erupted across Tibet. China's response left 227 dead, over 1,000 injured and 6,810 in prison.

Some have since been released. Some are still behind bars. Some didn't live to tell the tale.

A few not only survived until release but then evaded surveillance and managed to escape into exile.

In 2015, we put the testimony of seven torture survivors in front of the UN.

Voices that China tried to silence now told tales of barbaric cruelty and incredible bravery.

They told of the unbreakable spirit of Tibetan resistance.

Eleanor Byrne-Rosengren - Tibet Watch and Free Tibet

Lhagyardi Namgyal Dolkar - Gu Chu Sum Movement of Tibet

Video testimony from Tibetan monks who survived torture in the wake of the 2008 Uprising

free entry / campaign activities / music and refreshments

The 'Blood on the Snows' tour has been organised by Tibet Watch and Free Tibet.

The Aberdeen event is supported by Tibet Support Group Grampian, Aberdeen Political Economy Group, Aberdeen University Politics and IR Society, Aberdeen University Feminist Society and Aberdeen University Anthropology Society.

Tibet Support Group Grampian

free
TIBET

